This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

(i) a polymer component wherein the so-called structural precursor is a (a) siloxane compound, (b) polyarylene ether, or (c) cage molecule,

(ii) a polymer component wherein the so-called radical precursor is an (d) alkyl group, (e) cycloalkyl group, or (f) aromatic group

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Claims 4-6 and 35-37 recite species (a).
Claims 8 and 39 recite species (b).
Claims 9, 10, 40, and 41 recite species (c).
Claim 11 and 33-34 recite species (d).
Claim 12 recites species (e).

Claim 13 recites species (f).

The following claim(s) are generic: claims 1 and 28.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

As a measure to expedite prosecution, the Examiner strongly encourages Applicant to re-write their claims to more precisely define their invention. Claim 1 discloses a "low dielectric material" comprising a "polymer" that, itself, is described in terms of its structural fragments, or "precursors", that represent the different structural attributes of polymer. In the Examiner's estimation, however, the polymer/polymer composition does not possess dielectric properties but, rather, is the compound from which the dielectric material is derived. Certainly, they would not have dielectric properties like those stipulated in claims 20-23. That is to say, only after the polymer is subjected to some form of energy that results in the partial degradation of the polymer (and, hence, the loss of those parts of the molecule corresponding to the radical precursors) thereby yielding a nanoporous sample is a low dielectric material obtained. It is, therefore, the Examiner's position that claim 1 should perhaps be rewritten as a product process claim that defines the polymer material and its subsequent partial degradation to form pores. Applicant is advised that this does not simply entail combining the limitations of claims 1 and 2 because claim 2 does nothing more than define the role of the radical precursor. Claim 2 is not describing an actual process step.
